To Whom It May Concern:

I am writing in reference to Mike Roy of RHR Home Repairs and Improvements. For nearly two years, he has served as a contractor for my residential and rental properties. In fact, to date he has completed five separate jobs for me. The projects have been both internal and external.

As a repeat customer, I must say that I am pleased with the level of Mr. Roy's performance. He is both creative and reasonably priced. In addition, he listens to the desires of a client and works to his best effort to meet them. When there is a discrepancy in vision, particularly as it concerns project outcome, Mr. Roy strives to eliminate the problem(s). Furthermore, if there is a project that is beyond his expertise, he has resources enough to recommend someone who can complete it.

I have found that when I am met with an emergency, Mr. Roy makes himself readily available. Even with a busy schedule, he gives immediate attention. It has fostered between us a really solid working trust.

I plan to use him on future projects and highly recommend to anyone. He is professional, courteous, and hard working.

Thank you for your time,

To Whom It May Concern,

I am writing this letter to inform you of my complete satisfaction of the work I hired Mr. Michael Roy to do at my home.

I recently contracted with a local siding company to put up new siding on my home and was told that they would begin the work within 3-4 weeks. I figured that I would have enough time to replace both my external front and rear doors, as they were in bad shape appearance wise.

Through word of mouth from a coworker, I was given Mr. Roy's name and phone number. My coworker also praised the work he had done for her; so preferring to keep the money "in the community" I called and spoke with him about hanging the two doors for me. Mr. Roy agreed to come over and take a look at what I wanted done. When Mr. Roy arrived at my home I was very impressed with his professional attitude and his professional appearance. After patiently listening to how I wanted things done, we signed the paperwork for Mr. Roy to begin the job within a few days.

Unfortunately, the material for the vinyl siding was delivered to my home much sooner than I had expected and I was informed that workers would be out soon to begin putting the siding on my home. Hoping to get the doors installed before the workers began siding my home, I contacted Mr. Roy and explained the situation. Much to my relief, Mr. Roy stated that he could get the doors hung the very next day. And he did.

I would like to say that I am very satisfied with his work and to also let you know that Mr. Roy went above and beyond to get this job done.

I cannot begin to explain how nice it is to see a young black entrepreneur as talented, positive and professional as Mr. Roy. His prices were fair and I did not feel that he was trying to "get over". From the time he started the job to the time he finished the job; Mr. Roy had the same positive attitude. I would most certainly hire him again and have already referred his company to another friend of mine. I appreciate the great job he did.

I wish both him and his wife all the success in the world with this business; they deserve it.

Sincerely,

Dear Mr. Roy:

I left a message on your answering machine Saturday night, but I'm writing also to make sure you receive this message.

Thanks for doing a good job cleaning out the gutters on the Fairholme House Sat. afternoon.

My husband and I have decided not to cover the gutters with screens at this time, so we're cancelling that job order now.

Sincerely,
Ann Bentley
